MORTON RECEIVES FINAL WHITEWASH

Commission Declared There Was No Criminal Intent on Part of the Former Secretary.

CLOSES FAMOUS REBATE CASE

Statement Issued Bestows Praise Upon Attorney-General Moody and President Roosevelt.

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 9.-In a statement issued to-day by the Interstate Commerce Commission regarding the conviction of the Atchison, Topeka and the the law with respect to the giving of rebates, the commission says that the avowed purposes of the practice tends to support the view that there was no criminal intent on the part of Paul Morton, former Secretary of the Navy and former head of the traffic department o former head of the traffic department of the Santa Fe, and the other railroad ifficials involved.

The statement calls attention to the left that with the imposition of the $15,000 fee on the railroad "the history of the amous Santa Fe reduce case is probably dosed," and praises President Roosevelt and Attorney-General Moody for carrying hit with success the administration's deared purposes to enforce the statute in dared purpose to enforce the statute in "With the recent conviction of the

"The Attorney-General, in disagreeing with Messrs. "Thus apparently ends a famous chapter in the history of litigation under the listerstate Commerce laws. Primarily the Interstate Commerce Commission deserves the credit of in-litial investigation and public report, but the great meed of praise is due to Attorney-General Moody, and, of sourse, President Roosevett, in again carrying out with success the declared purpose of the administration to enforce this great statute in all practicable ways."

PLAN ABANDONED.

Roosevelt Home Club Will Go Out of Existence.

Out of Existence.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, August 9.—The Roosevelt Home Club, which was organized to acquire possession of the Roosevelt homestead, where the President was born, and to maintain it as a landmark in the city of New York, has decided that it is not a position to fulfill its mission.

In the application of Roderick Begg, president of the Lub, and the other directors and officers, signed an order permitting the sale of the Roosevelt homestead for the sum of $50,000.

The project of securing the birthplace of President Roosevelt, at No. 28 East Twentleth Street, was discouraged by the President, and from that time the proposition became a failure.

THE SOUVENIR CARDS WILL SOON BE READY

The Series of Sixteen May Be Secured for Eight Coupons.

Coupons.

On Sunday the first coupon in the series for the sixteen beautiful post-cards will be printed, and it is expected that there will be a tremendous rush for them, as there are hundreds who want them to send to their far-away dear ones and friends.

These pictures are of the most interesting and historic sights in the Capital City and they afford a rare opportunity for the people to send them away to remind others of the old scenes with which they were once so familiar. It is easy enough to secure them. All that is necessary is to cut the coupons, which will be published on the second page of The Times-Dispatch from August 12th to August 18th, inclusive. There will be eight coupons allogether, and it is necessary only to take them to the stores, which have already been named, in order to receive the sixten beautiful postal carda in return.

The following is a list of the cards which are to be given away:

(By Associated Press.)

ROCHESTER, N. Y., August 8.—Two Italian boys, aged about 14, were arrested to-night, charged with attempting to wrock the Black Diamond Express, on the Lehigh Valley Railroad near Geneva, last night. The engineer saw some boys run from the track and noticed by the jar of the engine that semothing was on the track. He stopped the train, and found that seweral pieces of Iron had been placed on the rails and the wheels of the locomotive had passed over them. Other similar obstructions were found ahead of the locomotive. One of the boys made a confession, in which he said the iron was put on the track to see the locomotive jump.

BOYS WERE ROUGH WITH THE PLAYERS

Richmond Men Have Rather an Unpleasant Experience in Norfolk-Ball News.

Some of the younger Norforkites apparently did not like the Lawmakers any too well after the latter had won the game in that city on Wednesday. Pitcher Still, Catcher Cowan and Rightfielder Boyd received had treatment at the hands of a crowd of youngsters, who witnessed the game and who hated to see Norfolk slip further away from Lynchburg in the pennant race. As the three ball-players were leaving the diamond a crowd congregated, and when they reached the cars they were yelled at and various cars they were yelled at and various missiles flew in their direction. Cowan was struck across the hand with a stick and Still was struck on the arm. Chiddy, it is said, was also threatened. One of the Richmond players said yesterday that he believed it was the boys who started the trouble. A crowd of youngsters had congregated and excited the older heads who were present.

congregated and excited the older heads who were present.

"Rowdytsm can only be stopped by the authorities taking a firm hand," said Judge Witt a few days ago when discussing disorderly scenes on the diamond. He declared that the officers on every field should keep order, and that when a player so far forgot himself as to make a speciacle or to use language that laddes should not hear, he should be arrested and jailed. If a player on any team is ever tried before the Judge of the Hustings Court of Richmond It is a safe bet that he will be carful in the future abyout his conduct while playing ball.

has been with Portsmouth ever since he shook the dust of Richmond from his foot, and has been doing good work. He wa certainly in old-time form yesterday and the rooters were with him.

Portsmouth had a host of rooters in the grandstand and bleachers yesterday. Anthony, Titman and Hamilton were roundly applauded each time they came to bat. All three players are favorites with the Richmond rooters. And there are but few who do not and have not all the time thought that it was a big mistake in releasing Titman. He has all the time thought that it was a big mistake in releasing Titman. He has won several games for Portsmouth.

It was very fortunate indeed for Richmond that Roanoke piled up runs on Danville yesterday, for had the Tobacconists won the game they would have glided gently into third place and Richmond would have bumped down the steps until the fourth landing was reached.

mond would have sumped town the steps until the fourth landing was reached.

Portsmouth fans sent many telegrams of congratulations here last night. Shuman is a here in that city, and he can own half of it if he wishes.

The two opposing twirlers—Still and Shumann—went to the Casine last night. They are the best of friends, and each congratulated the other. Still always congratulated the other who beats him in a game. The Richmonders can't expect the Colonel to win all of his games. Had the other twirlers done as well as he has Richmond would not be as far down the ladder as she is.

Draw or Eckstone will likely pitch today. Drew did not accompany the team to Norfolk, and it is his time to work today. Salve will probably work in one of the games on Baturday if two games are played. The Portsmouth players are not very much inclined to play a double-header here, for they say that their city wants the postponed game.

Portsmouth outplayed Richmond yesterday, her infield being about perfect. Fischman and Kain and Hamilton and Kelly taking all chances.

RAILROAD MEN WIN

They Defeat Stove Works Team by Score of 9 to 8.

A very pretty and exciting game of ball was played yesterday between the R. F. and P. and the Southern Stove Works Clubs, which ended in the close score of 9 to 8 in favor of the former. The contest was very interesting from start to finish. Richardson, for the railroad boys, pitched well, as did Kennedy, for the stove-makers.

THE TRYPSIN "CURE."

Professional View of Dr. Beard's Strange Exploit.

Beard's Strange Exploit.

It used to be urged as a repreach to scientific medicine that it surrounded itself with mystery and refused to take self with mystery and leaduring and poly tis that in these latter days such a repreach can no longer be made. Now the consumption cures and the cancer ourse are published to the world in the say press before they are definitely formulated in the minds of their discoverage and long before they have been put to the test of actual experience. It is impossible to calculate the misery of disillusion that followed the false hopes it realed by the premature publication of the tuberoulin discovery. The wretched failures of the early experiments with this substance not only dashed the hopes of thousands of the tuberoulus, but threw discredit upon scientific medicine, and brought a really valuable remedy into such disreputs that it was years before its subordinate but definite positions as a therapsution measure was established. We hope that the recent publications of the substance of the tuberoulus but there will be the substance of the tuberoulus but there disorded upon scientific medicine.

will not have an equally sad and deplorable outcome.

In McClure's Magazine for August is an enthusiastic account of the value of trypsin injections in the treatment of this disease. The author, Dr. C. W. Saleeby, describes the researches made by Beard of Edinburgh which led Min to the employment of this remedy, and on the strength of two inconclusive experiments on mice and two incomplete trials of trypsin injections in man proclimins that at last a definite cancer cure has been found. "The giving of the widest and most immediate publicity to these facts," he says in conclusion, "seems to be a proceeding from which it would be cruel and cowardly to refrain." And what are of the taims in the world be cruel and cowardly longer to keep from a suffering world? Two cases are reported, in neither of which an absolute disappearance of the taims in a soccurred, and in one of which it is acknowledged that the patient is yet in danger of his life, "by reason of the poisonous action of the disintegration products of the growth." and two cases of Jenson mouse tumor are related, in neither of which an appeared when one animal died and the other was killed, but was only in process of "degeneration."

A report such as this might be published in a professional journal, with an apology from the author for the patient of the two was killed, but was only in process of "degeneration."

A report such as this might be published in a professional journal, with an apology from the author for the patient of the two was killed, but was only in process of "dispensional formal, with an apology from the author for the patient of the remedy by others, and so lead to the other was killed, but was only in process of "dispensional formal, with an apology from the author for the patient of the remedy by others, and so lead to the collection of sufficient opinion of the value of the treatment. The medical reader, knowing the uncertainties of diagnosis, and fumiliar with the erratic course of malignant growths, would accours of malignant growths absolutely certain developments of the knife in his own case, possibly and probably with fatal result.

It may be that in trypsin a true remedy for maglignant disease has been discovered, and the cases of Beard and of Shaw-Mackenzie, as related in the latter's work on cancer, raise the hope that this may be true; but these cases are by no means conclusive, and merely offer encouragement for further trais. When, as Gaylord said in his paper read before the Medical Society of the county of Kings, reported in another column of this journal, a spontaneous cure of cancer in mice took place in 22 per cent, of his laboratory cases, it is unpardonable to announce to the world that trypsin is a certain cure for the disease, because in two mice which had received the injections the tomors were found in a condition of regression, even when this cridence is strengthened by two unconvincing cases in man. Even in the happy event of the discovery of an actual cure for cancer the promuture announcement of the fact in a lay magazine, before the remedy has become familiar to the profession and the proper method of its application has been established, must be deplored. At the best, it exposes the remedy to the fate of tuberculin, and, at the worst, it raises false hopes in the minds of many sufferers from operable cancer, which will lead them to reject the only ones which the conscientious physician can advise.—Medical Record.

The sentences passed upon the Sebastopol mulineers probably will be mitigated. It, will be recalled that the papers in the cases of these men disappeared mysteriously after the arrival at Sebastopol of Admiral Skrydloff, commander of the Black Sea fleet. Hefore he left Sebastopol the admiral intimated that he considered the condemnation of the mulineers pararanged and injust, and said he thought the officers had been more to blame than the sailors. There is more than a suspicion that the seizure by "revolutionists" of the papers in those cases was staged by Admiral Skrydloff himself.

MODERN MICROSCOPE MAN'S SECOND SIGHT

Remarkable Uses of the Instrument That Reveals Small Creatures Big With Direful Con- ' sequences.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—At this season when every amateur naturalist in the country is providing himself with misgroscopic apparatus for the summor's outing among beetles, burrs and bacteria, the manufacturers of microscopes are complaining that they cannot keep pace with the demand. One firm alone in New York City makes and disposes of seventy-five hundred of these indispensable instruments in a year. The call for high power instruments, furthermore, is already producing results which could not have been anticipated a year ago. The latest development of the magnifying glass, one not yet carried to completion, promises the revelation of unseen things burled seventy-five times deeper from our eyes than the stata of minuteness to which the ordinary microscope, as it is called, presents as yet only a very unsatisfactory image. Particles that were invisible before flash up under the implingment of the strong ray of light that is used, but their nature only as blurs. Yet the knowledge that further vision exists is spurring the inentor to pursue and establish it. Meantime, it is in the field of medicine that the microscope as we now have it is doing the greatest and most sensational things. Thus, its latest find, the germ of hydrophobia, has created all at once a change in the method of treatment of that disease. The patient who has been bitten by a presumably mad dog is henceforth freed from the long period of suspense that waited on the results of the former method of inoculating a rabbit with the virus of the dog. Now that the germ is known, its presence or absence may be detected at once by miscroscopic examination of the brain substance of the alloged mad dog, and the sufferer either immediately relieved of his fears or warned that he must undergo the Pasteur treatment.

The inicroscope is, in fact, the up-to-date physician's most useful tool. Without it the germ theory of the origin of diseases could not have been discovered; without it the everyday practice of medicine would be hopelessly hampered.
